I'm a young and energetic person. After spending few years in banking I decided to get back to IT. In my last job I've helped dozens of customers with remote channels also I've send feedback to our IT department several times. This experience is very helpful in web and mobile development since I've exchanged a lot of opinions with customers. I am very fluent in English so there are plenty of resources to gain knowledge from. It's the right time for me to gain commercial experience and expand my skills & knowledge.
